C.E.R. SALE DEADLOCK

EXCHANGE OFFER BY MANCHUKUO

FOUR ROUBLES TO THE YEN

Moscow, Aug. 25.
After two months of discussion, during which neither party has moved materially from the original stand adopted, the negotiations in Tokyo between the Soviet and Manchukuo for the sale of the Chinese Eastern Railway are practically at a deadlock.

Manchukuo still adheres to the suggested price of fifty million yen and is now contending that this corresponds to the two hundred million gold roubles asked by the Soviet delegation for the railway. Manchukuo is basing the exchange rate on twenty-five yen equals one gold rouble, valuing the rouble at less than fourpence. The Soviet delegation has expressed its willingness to discuss this exchange rate question with the Manchurian representatives, but they are very dissatisfied with the suggestion made as to the value of the rouble. —Reuter.

DOROTHY LOSES

AN UNAVAING RECOVERY

HELEN JACOBS IN FINAL

Forest Hills, Aug. 25.
Miss Dorothy Round, the last English representative in the American national women's singles tennis championship made her exit to-day, when she was beaten by Miss Helen Jacobs, holder of the title, in the semi-final by two sets to one. The scores read 6-4, 5-7, 6-2.

The match, which had been delayed since Monday owing to a continual downpour, was played under conditions made difficult by a high wind.

The court itself was dry and the sun shone, but the wind seemed to cause Miss Round many moments of trouble and she had nearly lost the match in straight sets before accustoming herself to the conditions.

Miss Helen Jacobs displayed much quicker adaptability, and using her sliced and chopped strokes with skill and accuracy quickly won the first set and led 4-1 in the second.

GALVANISED.

Up to this point, Miss Round had been more or less outplayed, and when Miss Jacobs did not beat her with outright winners, the English girl was netting or over-hitting.

But after the fifth game in the second set Miss Round galvanised herself into action and capturing a sequence of games by means of brilliant backhand passing shots down the sidelines, she won the second set.

But Miss Jacobs steadied herself in the final set, and slowing up the game with spin shots continued to force Miss Round into errors.

The English challenger won only two games in this set and Miss Jacobs qualified to oppose Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody in the final. —Reuter.

LUNGSHAN SUICIDE PACT

AN ELOPEMENT TRAGEDY

IDENTIFICATION OF VICTIMS

The identity of a young Chinese couple who while travelling down from Canton on the s.s. Lungshan on Sunday night disappeared in circumstances suggesting a suicide pact, has been disclosed, according to reports brought down by the steamer.

It will be recalled that the couple simply gave their names as Mr. and Mrs. Chan from Canton, and this, taken in conjunction with the text of a note found in their cabin, suggested a desire to have their identity unrevealed.

Reports extensively published in the Chinese press however have drawn widespread attention to the case, and as was to be expected, they brought a number of inquiries on the steamer, some of them eventually proving to be relatives of the missing couple.

It was then revealed that the man's surname was not Chan, but Lam, and that the woman was in reality Mrs. Chan.

The couple, childhood sweethearts, had eloped from a city in the interior of Fukien, where they were well-known, the man being a divorcee and the woman the wife of a rich resident.

AN OLD STORY.

It is said to be the old, old story of both being forced by parental will into incompatible marriages, this resulting in the tragical sequel when both vowed a devotion and resolve to die together. Within the short period following their elopement, they had been to Canton and Hongkong where it would seem that they had only too well carried out the exhortation: "Eat, drink and make merry, for to-morrow we die." This spirit of recklessness continued until the last, the final act of suicide following a repast on board the Lungshan taking everyone on board by surprise who had marked their liveliness throughout and perhaps had envied them for it.

Speediest Conference on Record

SOVIET MAKE CERTAIN RESERVATIONS

London, Aug. 25.
The wheat agreement was formally signed at Canada House to-night at 10.30 p.m. after further discussions, clearing up the final details.

The agreement incorporates a statement by the importing countries that being desirous of establishing a balance between consumption and production, they agree not to encourage any increase in acreage, to adopt every possible measure to increase consumption and to lower Customs tariffs when the price is steady.

The importing countries also agree that in order to restore more normal conditions in the world wheat trade, the reduction of Customs tariffs must be accompanied by a modification of the general regime of quantitative restriction of wheat imports and accept in principle the desirability of such modifications.

NEXT YEAR.

The exporting countries agree that it may not be possible to make substantial progress in these modifications during 1933-34, but the importing countries are prepared to make effective alterations in 1934-35 if world prices have taken a definitely upward turn from the average price in the first six months of 1933.

The exporting countries agree to restrict their exports in 1933/34 to a total of 650,000,000 bushels and all with the exception of the Danubian countries and Russia will reduce production by fifteen per cent. in 1934/35.

Customs tariffs will be adjusted when the world price reaches 12 gold francs a quintal or 63.3 gold cents c.i.f. a bushel. —Reuter.

HIGHER PRICE REJECTED.

An agreement on the world price of wheat and on the limitation of supplies was reached to-day by the Wheat Conference in London. The Canadian Premier Mr. R. B. Bennett, who is the Chairman of the Conference, announced that the exporting countries had accepted 12 gold francs per quintal or 63.08 gold cents per bushel as the price level at which the importing nations may be asked to readjust tariffs on wheat.

The exporting countries, he explained, had desired a higher price but in view of the representations made by the other delegations they were prepared to agree to this figure.

The French delegate informed the Conference that his Government were prepared to give proof of their desire for agreement by accepting this price. The delegate from Germany spoke in similar terms.

SOVIET RESERVATION.

On behalf of Russia, it was stated she would sign but with reservation as to the limitation of exported wheat. The Danubian States intimated that they were in the same position as Russia.

Exporting countries have agreed to limit their export of wheat during 1934 to 650,000,000 bushels and with exception of Russia and Danubian States to reduce their production by 15 per cent. The agreement is to be in force for two years. There was a proposal from America that the price level question should be left over to be determined by the Wheat Advisory Committee which is being set up in London and the Italian representatives also urged that the matter should be dealt with later but these proposals were defeated.

THE LATEST OUTRAGE

YOUNG PLANIST SEIZED

300,000 YEN RANSOM DEMANDED

Harbin, Aug. 25.
Simeon Kapse, the twenty-four-year-old son of the wealthy owner of the Hotel Moderne, was kidnapped at midnight by bandits.

The bandits have already got into communication with the parents of Mr. Kapse and are demanding a ransom of three hundred thousand yen.

The victim of this latest outrage is a well-known pianist. He has played in many parts in the Far East. He is a Russian by birth but is a naturalised Frenchman.

The incident seems to show the futility of the efforts of the police in combating the kidnapping gangs although a strenuous drive has been made in the past week having been sent to their lair on the Sungari about five miles from Harbin.

JAPANESE AND RUSSIAN KILLED.

The kidnappers who are operating on the Sungari River opposite to Harbin appear to have had little respect for the police and had been becoming more and more daring and hence this raid against them.

They have been carrying out their raids in broad daylight in a most daring way, either getting their man or killing him.

During the last few days they killed a Japanese and a Russian, both of whom resisted the attempts of the kidnappers to make them captive.

The Japanese, a man named Yamaguchi, 34 years of age, was peacefully fishing when two kidnappers crept up to him from the rear and threatened him with revolvers tried to drag him into the heavy undergrowth. He broke loose and jumped into the river but his assailants again caught him.

WIFE ESCAPES.

A sentry on a nearby roof, saw the struggle and opened fire but without effect. Meanwhile Mrs. Yamaguchi, who was bathing, swam down the river and escaped.

Members of the Self Defence Corps soon reached the scene and deploying instituted a close search for the kidnappers, but they had not proceeded any great distance before they came across the body of Yamaguchi, shot through the heart. None of the murderers was captured.

The Russian who was killed was named Poliakoff. He was on a duck shooting trip with two friends and after a successful evening's shooting they arranged for a night's lodging in a labourer's hut. Poliakoff was very wet so he went outside the hut to change his clothing. His friends were preparing supper when they heard the sounds of a struggle in the yard. This noise was followed immediately by a revolver shot.

FOUND DEAD.

Both men seized their guns and rushed to a window and surmising that Poliakoff was being attacked by kidnappers, they commenced to shoot in the air, hoping to scare off the miscreants.

Shortly afterwards they went outside and found their friend dead with a bullet wound in the back. River police equipped with fast motor boats armed with machine guns are now carrying out a big drive against the kidnappers. —Reuter.

A BROKEN DOWN SYSTEM.
This is a condition (or disease) to which many names are given but few really understand. It is simply weakness—a break down as it were, of the vital forces that sustain the system. No matter what may be its cause (they are almost numberless), its symptoms are much the same: the more prominent being sleeplessness, sense of prostration or weariness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. Now, what alone is essential in all such cases is increased vitality—vigour, vital strength and energy to throw off these morbid feelings, and as night succeeds the day this may be more certainly secured by a course of THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY, THERAPION No. 3 and new existence imparted in place of what had so lately seemed worn-out, used up and valueless. This preparation is suitable for all ages, constitutions and conditions, in either sex, and is difficult to imagine a disease or derangement whose main feature is weakness, that will not be speedily and permanently overcome by this recuperative essence, which is destined to cast into oblivion everything that had preceded it. For this well-spread source of human misery, obtain Therapion No. 3, Chemists or either Mr. Roberts, 11, Leadenhall Street, E.C.3, or Mr. Roberts, 11, Leadenhall Street, E.C.3, London, E.C.3.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

The New White Summer Hats Have Their Points!

Mrs. John R. Fell, Jr., left, is shown with her sister-in-law, Dorothy Fell, as they attended the charity beer garden party given on the estate of Mrs. Payne Whitney at Manhasset, L. I. With her pointed white hat Mrs. Fell wore a charming white dress with cloth faggotting for trim. Miss Fell is wearing a swanky low-crowned white sailor.

ONE CROWNED IN LINEN BRIMS WITH CHIC!

By Betsy Schuyler

New York.—Even an unusually large exodus of smart folks to Europe leaves enough of a nucleus to keep things rolling smartly. Judging from the gay air that pervades all things social these hot days, Old Man Depression certainly has the skids under him!

Newport promises to be more than a normally gay season. Southampton is in full swing, and the gay costumes the ladies are wearing in both places add dash to these smart resorts.

Beach dresses are much more au fait than pajamas, among those who know their clothes. Mrs. Orson D. Munn wears a colourful one, with baggy long sleeves, full skirt and tight surplice bodice, one of the wrap-around and tie sort, with splashy white dots on a colourful background. She wears white shoes and beret and totes a linen parasol, which incidentally is a really smart thing to do, at the best beaches.

White hats top the mode at social things in and around New York these days. And it's the way you wear your crown that determines your chic! Mrs. John R. Fell, Jr., at a charity beer garden party, wore a very smartly crowned white linen hat, the crown pleated so that it made four perky points sticking right up. Her white dress was a charming one, with cloth faggotting for trim.

Dorothy Fell, daughter of Mr. Orson D. Munn, wore a low-crowned white sailor. Nora Grace wears a very gaily printed crepe dress—an all-over design of colourful English primroses. That hat's banding is of velvet primroses in the dress' colours.

Striped garb is on the up and up. At Mrs. Payne Whitney's estate on Long Island, Jessie Leonard wore a diagonally striped blue and white dress, the stripes very far apart and made with a single straight stripe down the front, down both sides and down the back, the other stripes pointing up or down to these straight lines. Nancy Hardt wore a black and white striped linen dress with a white jacket. Justine Cuttin has a beach dress of blue, yellow, white and brown shirting, the stripes very wide and gay, and all running up and down. Jedy Hamlin has one double-striped crepe dress, the fine diagonal brown stripes, about eight inches apart, running around the dress, from hem to shoulder line.

Monograms are in high favour, appearing on scarfs, blouses, pins, belt-buckles and in flaming colour on big sports handkerchiefs. Mrs. John Kiser wears a very trim white crepe dress, a novelty crepe with open-work stripes in it, which has a scarf with one end monogrammed in initials that step-down. Alice Belmont has a snappy gold and silver monogram on a white purse that she carries with a white crepe dress that has gold and silver fancy fasteners.

Necklines with bows still adorn many of the best-looking necks. Peggy Dunn likes a high V neckline, with a bow at the V. Pretty Edith Pulley wears a white washable velvet scarf tied in a bow, above a square necked polka dotted blue and white dress.

Brown and white sports pumps have a lot of advocates. At Southampton, Cecilia Belmont, Mrs. Ralph Pulitzer, Jr., Marion Ball, Mrs. Fairfield Workum, Mrs. William Thaw, 3d, Ora M. Davis and Virginia Thaw all sponsored the white costume, with brown accessories which included white pumps with brown touches.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

"What's that, Tom?" Mrs. Smith woke her sleeping husband.

"Tom, there's a child crying out on the street and it's three o'clock. I've been listening and—Ther! Hear it?—Do slip on your bathrobe and go down."

In a few minutes the Smiths were drying the eyes of a small boy in pyjamas who still shook with sobs.

"I want mamma and daddy." "Where are they? You're the little Brown boy, aren't you? Don't cry now. It's all right," cooed Mrs. Smith cuddling him in her arms. "We'll take you home. I wonder how he ever got out," she added to her husband.

A Late Arrival

A car went past, slowed and stopped at the Brown house. There were sounds of merry voices and "good-nights."

Mr. Smith, the little fellow in his arms, approached the porch just as Mrs. Brown was making a scene about the door being open. "There were burglars!"

They really hadn't expected to be later than twelve o'clock. It was so safe in the house and Junior was such a sound sleeper! How in the world had he ever climbed over the high sides of his bed? And she didn't think he knew how to unlock the front door.

Mr. Brown said, "Have a glass of beer, Smith? And thanks for bringing home the runaway. Do something for you sometime have to address the kid about running off . . . s'pose the thunder woke him up . . . just got home in time, didn't we—there's the rain now."

A Neighbourly Scolding

Mr. and Mrs. Brown took turns chattering. Junior's head was still on Tom's shoulder, his arms around his neck. Tom had a feeling that he was afraid of being punished.

All this time he hadn't said a word. He just looked.

"You two . . . fools," he blurted out suddenly. "If you ever go out and leave this baby alone in the house again I'll have you arrested. I don't know why some people are allowed to have children."

He put Junior down gently, kissed him, slammed the screen door and strode out.

Mrs. Orson D. Munn, wearing the latest in beach attire, strolls with linen parasol and kit through the grounds of the Southampton Beach Club at Southampton L. I. Dresses like these are more au fait than pajamas at the smartest resorts.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, secretly marries DICK JADDER, a construction superintendent. Dick opposes her continued employment and pleads for a home but Eve is determined to go on working.

The same day Eve learns that she is to be sent to New York by the store and must leave that night. She does not tell Dick this news until they are at dinner. He sees her alone in her room.

In New York Eve meets FRED CARTER, dress buyer for Bixby's who introduces her to THURGOOD REEVE. There is much attraction between them. Eve is much attracted to him. He angers her by trying to kiss her in a taxi.

Eve goes to see IRVING PRENTISS, a former schoolmate who is married and working in New York. Irving is playing the stock market and advises Eve to do the same.

At the end of a week Eve returns to Lak City. Dick meets her and takes her to the fashionable Hotel Miramar. They have their quarrel that morning.

CHAPTER V

Dick had stopped at the Y. W. C. A. for Eve's mail on his way to the station to meet her. There was a large envelope from her mother, containing letters for her and for Dick. Eve's parents had been asked not to announce the marriage.

"Why bless her heart!" said Dick. "It must have taken her a whole evening to write this. It's a great many years since anyone called me 'Dear Son'."

And indeed it had taken Mrs. Bayless a whole evening to compose that first painstaking letter to her new son-in-law. Kate Bayless, plump, patient and domestic, was suffering the tortures of rheumatism, fingers incurable from years of hard toil in the interest of her family.

Henry Bayless—or "Hank" as he generally was known—was secretly proud of his wife and daughters and praised their achievements to outsiders. But it was his firm belief that encouragement would cause them to overdo and therefore they seldom heard these words of praise.

Soon after his marriage to Kate, Hank had established a small butter and egg route. His earnings had to be stretched with the utmost care to cover the cost of educating his two daughters, keep up the home and put by something for old age. It had been the dream of his life to have a business of his own. However, a large stock company gradually absorbed all the butter and egg routes of the neighbourhood, Hank's with the rest. After that he secured work with a company manufacturing passenger elevators. His work was to assist in assembling the parts and check for possible errors.

Thrill was the watchword of the Bayless home. Hank had taught his family always to have the cash on hand before any purchase was made. For years he had set aside regularly a small sum to invest in the stock of the local manufacturing concern which had been built up from a small beginning by two of his friends in whom he had the greatest confidence. In the course of years the dividends from this investment became irregular and uncertain and it was whispered about that the company was not as stable as it had been. Hank stopped investing in the stock and increased his weekly deposits at the bank.

Despite all this careful saving and economizing, Kate Bayless had managed to lay by over the years a small but steadily growing accumulation of dollars. Unknown to Hank, she had deposited this money in a building and loan association.

Kate saved for this fund by unerring industry. Blessed with abundant health, she pursued her aerobic into her home-making. From her European-born mother she had learned the knack of preparing delicious and sustaining food at comparatively little cost. So task was too arduous to be overcome by her willing labour; no obstacle but succumbed to plans of her hopes.

Kate was overjoyed when teachers reported that her daughters had definite artistic tendencies. Esther, slim, dark and rosy-cheeked, had a real gift for music. After several years of study at a local conservatory she became a successful music teacher. Then she pleased her mother by marrying a young bank clerk and having a baby called Katherine Ann for Mrs. Bayless.

Eve, a year younger, had a flair for composition and elocution. Hank grumbled every time he paid out money for music and elocution lessons but Kate stood firm. Crabbed old Grandmother Bayless insisted Kate was spoiling her girls.

"Why should my girls do housework when they ought to be practicing their music?" the mother argued. "They will have plenty of time for that later. If they were lazy—yes. But they are busy all the time. I do not boss them. I do not always understand what it is all about; the modern ways of teaching are different from when I went to school. My girls are always doing something interesting and I think they will come through all right."

"But you wear yourself out for them Kate."

Kate would smile complacently and answer, "Yes? Well, a doctor once told me that if a healthy woman did all her own housework it would give her just the right amount of exercise."

Eve caused most of her father's perturbation. After she had had far more schooling than he had originally planned she rented a downtown studio and taught dramatic expression. The venture lasted only one year but in that time she was able to save enough to take her to Lake City 500 miles distant where she enrolled in the school conducted by the Lake City Advertising Club.

Eve had taken the only job she could get, clerking in the basement of a department store. Her father, figuring up the cost of Eve's education, grumbled when he learned how much she was earning.

"Probably do her a lot of good, though," he grunted. "She can use some of those six-cylinder words to sell bargains."

In just what way this experience was to benefit Eve her father would have been surprised could he have heard her that same week delivering a protest against blatant advertising before her class. It happened that there were several advertising executives in the audience and among them was Earle Barnes of Bixby's store.

"That girl is made of good stuff," Barnes commented to the man beside him. Months later he recognized Eve when she applied to him for a job.

Eve's work in the advertising office at Bixby's was a source of gratification to her parents. This latest surprise—her marriage to Dick Rader whom her father and mother had never seen—was received with mixed feelings. Kate prayed that her daughter had found a good husband. "The money—that comes with time and age if you work hard enough," she had written Eve in her simple, kindly way. "If he is a good man—that is everything."

Eve had written Dick that she would wait to have breakfast with him the morning she returned from New York, so he had ordered the belated meal sent to their suite. He suggested having dinner served there too, but Eve preferred to dine in the hotel restaurant.

She was donning a new brown velvet frock for the occasion when the telephone rang. She thought it must be Dick, calling from the main floor where he had gone for tobacco. Of perhaps some one connected with the hotel management.

"Hello?" she answered.

"Is Mr. Rader there?" A woman's voice—low, urgent, distressed—came over the wire.

A dozen distorted thoughts flashed through Eve's head. What woman could be wanting Dick? What woman knew he was here? And why that anxious tone of voice?

"Mr. Rader is not here at the moment," she answered, trying to conceal her surprise. "Do you wish to leave a message?"

"If you think he'll be back within a few minutes I'll hold the line, please."

Dick returned just then. "The call is for you," Eve said. She went into the bedroom, closing the door behind her. She sat down before the dressing table and busied herself with powder puff and lipstick. She could not hear Dick's words but thought she detected deep concern in his voice. A moment later he tapped on the door.

"Eve," he said, crossing the room in two strides and reaching for his overcoat. "I've got to go down town. Something's happened on the job. I can't wait to explain—don't know exactly what it's all about yet. I'm sorry!" The words were clipped off by a hastily closed door.

Eve returned to the living room and sat down to await his return. She was going to be reasonable about this she assured herself. It was very strange, though, to say the least. Why should that woman have called? If anything really had happened connected with his

MR. LO WEN-KAN'S FAREWELL

Nanking, August 26. Bid farewell by a large gathering of high officials, including Mr. Wang Ching-wei, Mr. Lo Wen-kan left for Sinkiang by the Eurasia Co.'s new Junkers plane, which is due in Sianfu at 2 p.m.

He will stay there till Sunday morning, when he will leave for Lanchow, from which place he goes on to Tihua on August 29.

Interviewed before his departure, Lo Wen-kan said he hoped to meet Dr. W. W. Yen, though the meeting place had not been fixed. If time and circumstances permitted he would tour southern and western Sinkiang, as well as Mongolia. The journey would occupy four months.

Yu Hsueh-chung, the Governor of Hopei, arrived from Kuling this morning.—Reuter.

work, surely the watchman or one of the other men connected with the construction project would have telephoned.

Two hours passed, three hours—and still Dick did not return. Neither did he telephone. Eve slipped off her velvet frock and hung it away. Mechanically she applied cleansing cream to her face and removed the make-up. She was furious. By now she was convinced that Dick was trying to teach her a lesson. He was showing her what she had shown him—that work comes first and a honeymoon second. Eve was hungry, too. She had had nothing to eat since breakfast, but she resisted her desire to order a tray of food sent up to the room. She went to bed at last and lay there, sleepless.

That woman! Eve could still hear the low, distressed voice. Was she, perhaps, some one who had been of importance in Dick's life; some one to whom he was still of first importance? (To be Continued.)

WORLD CRISIS A WAY OUT

By FREDERICK COPE, A.M.I.E.E.

Mr. Cope's striking articles on the world economic crisis, which were recently published in the Hongkong Telegraph are now available in pamphlet form.

One of the features, repaying study, is the close similarity between the plan of reform suggested by this local writer, and certain aspects of the Roosevelt recovery programme.
The author's ideas are naturally far too advanced for active promotion at the present time, but they are particularly interesting in view of the fact that President Roosevelt, in striking out on a path of his own, has travelled in the same direction.

The pamphlet is one of forty-four pages and can be obtained from the South China Morning Post at a cost of—

HOW THE DAVIS CUP WAS WON

upon to win this match to save the cup for his country. He was playing in front of one of the most deliciously excited crowds I ever saw and yet a very fair crowd.

VICTORS' COMMENTS.

It has been a great occasion, and my own abiding memory of it will be of how all those good sportsmen, 90 per cent. of whom were French, sprang to attention when the band struck up the National Anthem.

After the match I talked with Perry, Austin and Hughes. They were all extremely modest about their triumph, but Perry said he believed that England had started a long winning sequence in the Davis Cup.

Austin was not quite so optimistic, but said: "Our lean years are over."

The only comment of Mr. Roper Barrett, our non-playing captain, was: "I am delighted."

ATTACKING FOR FRANCE.

Merlin's orders from Rene Lacoste, the French captain, were to attack, and how splendidly he obeyed them. He went for Perry in the first set, and I do not think Perry quite knew what had hit him. Merlin took the set at 6-1.

Perry then settled down and, after a very fine battle of lawn tennis with the second set at 6-6, Merlin had two set points, but he could not clinch the issue. If he had won this set, he might quite conceivably have won the match.

At this stage Perry seemed to have got on top, and he took the third set at 6-2.

Leading 4-1 in the fourth set, Perry had two of the worst line decisions I have seen given against him.

On each occasion the ball was literally a yard out of court, and I am not exaggerating in stating that.

It was to Perry's credit that he did not allow these decisions to upset him.

Merlin drew up to 4-all with the crowd just about crazy with excitement.

Perry then led 5-4 and was at deuce four times, but Merlin pulled him back each time and Perry could not get the match point.

Steadying himself, Perry then gave a fine exhibition of how challenge cup lawn tennis should be played and he went out at 7-5 for the match.

Just for a moment the crowd was silent, but then they rose to their feet and cheered Perry with real hearty goodwill.

SHIPPED TO NEW YORK.

Two New Yorkers, Captain T. F. Kilkenny and Mr. Lloyd G. Thompson, recently accepted delivery of a schooner yacht which has the distinction of being the first of its type built in Hongkong to an order from abroad.

The craft, built of teak throughout, is the product of a local Chinese yard, A. King's Slipway. It has a keel weight of 6 tons, and displaces 30 tons. Other particulars are: Length overall, 51 ft. 6 ins.; below waterline, 42 ft. 6 ins.; beam 14 ft.; draft, 8 ft.

The vessel is fitted up as a pleasure yacht. In the fore and main cabin, are eight sleeping berths, in addition to the sleeping quarters for the crew of three for'ard.

There are also a stateroom and dining saloon, both of which are tastefully panelled.

The vessel has a sail spread of 1,264 sq. ft.

On completion, the yacht was shipped on an Italian steamer to New York, and now word has been received of her satisfactory behaviour in try-outs.

The cost of the vessel is understood to approach $20,000. It was the original intention of the owners to have an auxiliary motor fitted here, but after having shipped the machinery out, the work was postponed, and the machinery taken back to America with the schooner.

Cochet fought for two hours and three-quarters under a torrid sun before Cochet won by three sets to two.

Cochet has often been called the best fifth-set player in the world, and he looked it to-day.

Both players refused to put on pace; they just sensed their openings. There was a great struggle for the fifth game in the first set.

With Cochet serving, there were 16 deuces called and the game lasted 20 minutes; I have seen many a set last for less time than that.

Austin won the set at 7-5 and well deserved to do so. He always had his lawn tennis brain packed in ice and he was a little more consistent than Cochet, who netted frequently. The play was not spectacular, but it was good lawn tennis all the time.

WITHIN TWO GAMES.

Cochet took the second set at 6-4, playing in his old real form. He had suddenly put magic in his racket.

Austin never faltered. He won the third set in great style at 6-4, some of his placing shots, when Cochet came up, being the last word in exact precision.

Austin led 3-1 in the fourth

CHAMPIONSHIP EVENTS.

Entries for the V. R. C's night fete to be held on September 2 close this evening but entries for the two open championship events will not close until Monday. Already there is a large entry for all the races.

Up to yesterday nine entries had been received for the Long Plunge Championship and those who have signified their intention of competing include the present holder of the title, J. A. Victor and two former champions in J. R. Soares and S. H. Garrod. Other entries are G. A. V. Remedios, M. M. de V. Soares, J. A. de V. Soares, F. X. Monteiro, E. E. de Roza and J. A. L. Gutierrez.

For the Throwing the Polo Ball event there are five entries to date, including one from the Royal Navy. The entrants are J. A. de V. Soares, M. M. de V. Soares, D. Leonard, W. Pudget.

Owing to two of the V. R. C. ladies having been refused permission to swim in the Hongkong International Amateur Swimming Championships, the V. R. C. have included a Ladies Race for their night fete. Four ladies have already signified their intention of competing, including Miss Doris Hunt and Mrs. M. J. McMahon. Miss Beatrice Pantonji and Miss Roza will also compete.

The programme for next Saturday is as follows:

Boys' Team race (open to sons of members 15 years of age and under), "B" Class Aggregate, 75 yards medley.

"C" Class Aggregate, 100 yards breast stroke.

Throwing the Polo Ball (Colony's Championship).

"B" Class Aggregate, 200 yards.

"A" Class Aggregate, 400 yards.

Long Plunge (Colony's Championship).

Novelty Balloon Race.

Ladies Race, 50 yards.

set and then 4-3.

Only two games were wanted and the Davis Cup was ours.

But Cochet fought magnificently to win the next game. He went on to take the set at 6-4, and the frenzied crowd rose at him. He deserved all the cheers, for he had played with indomitable pluck.

In the final set Austin led 4-2, but in an atmosphere of intense excitement Cochet levelled and took the set for the match at 6-4.

In the doubles match yesterday Borotra and Brugnon won with some degree of ease in straight sets and it was not a success on our part to put in Lee as partner to Hughes.

It was a gamble which did not come off, although as events turned out it really did not matter.

ABANDONED BABIES

CHARITY STIGMA FEAR

ILLUSIONS ABOUT FOUNDINGS

London, July 26. Every so often it happens, in this so-called civilised age, that some housewife opens the door to take in the milk in the morning and finds an abandoned baby on her doorstep.

Or a woman leaves a perambulator outside a shop for ten minutes and coming out finds another child in it beside her own. Or a stationmaster, shutting up his gloomy waiting-rooms for the night, finds a bundle in the corner of a bench that turns out to be a child, friendless and unknown.

This happens far less frequently nowadays than it did in Dickens's time.

In July there were three cases of abandoned children reported in the newspapers. Last month there were five.

None of them appeared to be in distress. They were left in churches, in omnibuses, on doorsteps, given to strangers to "hold for a minute" and never reclaimed, and, in one instance, left in a closed suitcase in the grounds of a private house.

WELL FED AND CARED FOR.

The curious thing about abandoned babies is that they almost never look as if they had been anywhere near starvation. They are almost invariably clean, well fed, and well cared for, sometimes with a little supply of baby clothes left with them, often with a note giving their Christian name, and some message like "Please look after my baby."

What, then, makes a mother actually abandon her child? For all she knows, she may never see her son or her infant daughter again. The child, for all she knows, may die of cold or shock before it is ever found.

In trying to shift the responsibility for the little life on to unknown shoulders, the distraught mother incurs a dreadful responsibility of her own.

In the last century most abandoned children were found to be illegitimate. To-day they are nearly all children of married mothers who, are so poverty stricken, so without hope, that they believe any fate will be better for their child than the fate of being kept at home.

RELIEF DESPISED.

An unmarried mother nowadays, if she has the means of supporting her child, is not driven by fear of shame to this dangerous way of escape. It is the unemployed mother, faced with the support of another unwanted child, who abandons it with touching faith in the altruism of other people.

There are many forms of relief available to the mother who literally cannot support her child.

These reliefs are despised by the sort of mothers who prefer abandoning their children because they imagine that by being left on a kindly doorstep the child will have a better chance. They cherish fairy-tale illusions about the fate of the foundling.... Imagine their child brought up in comfort, made "a little gentleman," spared the ignominy of an "institution" or the displaced stigma of charity.

Having imagined so far, they are too ignorant to imagine a little further, to realise that the strangers will almost certainly be unwilling to adopt a child of unknown parents and unpredictable tendencies.

TRAINED FOR WORK.

People can always be found ready and anxious to adopt known children from adoption houses, but the foundling in the basket always goes straight to the police station. From the police station the child is sent to the "institution," which all people in fear of it still refer to as the "workhouse." The abandoned child ends in just that situation which the institution-despising mother thought she would avoid.

Luckily for the children whose mothers throw them so precariously on an indifferent world, the fate of foundlings is to be well and simply cared for and trained to support themselves when they are older.

This, however, is thanks to the Poor Law the mothers so dangerously try to avoid, and not to the fairy-tale adoptions befalling "my darling little Susan, whom I love, but cannot keep," when unhappy little Susan is left to battle with life alone on a park bench, or left in a basket on a doorstep.

JUNE FAILS TO GET ALIMONY

£1,000 A YEAR
ASKED

BACK TO STAGE

Lady Inverclyde (June, the actress) unsuccessfully applied in the Court of Session, Edinburgh, for interim alimony at the rate of £1,000 a year pending the hearing of Lord Inverclyde's divorce petition.

Her motion for interim costs of £150 was, however, granted by Lord Fleming.

Mr. Charles Mackintosh, making the applications for Lady Inverclyde, said the trial would take place in November.

According to his information, Lord Inverclyde's income was about £40,000 a year. Lady Inverclyde had no means of her own apart from an allowance, under the marriage contract, of £1,000 a year less tax, which meant that she had had to maintain herself on £14 a week.

MARRIAGE SETTLEMENT.

Lord Fleming: She has only to maintain herself?

Mr. Mackintosh: She has to keep herself in the position to which she is entitled as Lady Inverclyde.

Lord Fleming: I understand they have been living apart for some time? What has been the arrangement?—Only that she gets this allowance under the marriage contract. Since leaving her husband she has returned to the stage—she was a leading actress. But she has had no engagement since the end of last October and she now finds it impossible to get engagements because she cannot promise, on account of this case, to be in attendance regularly during this coming autumn.

"Last autumn," Mr. Mackintosh continued, "she was approached with regard to a provincial tour at a salary of £150 a week, but she thought she might have to be in Edinburgh, and the parties told her they could not employ her."

HER RENT AND SERVANTS.

"Subsequently she was approached to take part in a new show for next autumn, and again she had to say she might be detained in Edinburgh in November. There was also another inquiry under which she was offered a remunerative engagement. Her present position is that she has not only to maintain herself but also to keep herself in the front and to take lessons in dancing and singing. Recently she had to give up her dancing lessons. She has a special arrangement with her singing master.

"I submit that £14 a week is wholly inadequate for her rent, her servants, her ordinary living expenses, and to allow her to make reasonable provision for the kind of life which she lives, and I ask that it be increased by another £19 10s. a week."

"That will be a little over £30 a week, which, I submit, is not unreasonable in view of the position Lady Inverclyde holds."

Mr. J. F. Strachan, for Lord Inverclyde, said he did not wish Lady Inverclyde to be under any handicap in preparing for the trial, and therefore did not oppose the motion for interim costs.

But he strongly opposed the motion for interim alimony. Lord Inverclyde was under obligation to pay an annuity of £1,000 to Lady Inverclyde's mother, and that was being paid. An award of alimony was simply to relieve necessity in the meantime.

"My information," continued Mr. Strachan, "is that Lady Inverclyde gets £1,000 a year, tax free, but if Mr. Mackintosh says otherwise, I do not wish to controvert him."

Since August 1930 Lady Inverclyde had not only travelled in America, but had also been able to take proceedings against Lord Inverclyde. In these circumstances Mr. Strachan failed to see where any necessity arose.

Mr. Mackintosh submitted that Lady Inverclyde's present income was wholly insufficient. She should be able to live in a reasonable way as the wife of Lord Inverclyde.

Lord Fleming said: "Having regard to the income she enjoyed under the marriage contract, I am unable to hold that there is any necessity whatever for interim alimony in this case. I accordingly refuse that motion."

"With regard to the interim costs, I think the sum asked is quite reasonable, and I shall accordingly make an award of £150."

U.S. PROBLEM

One of the greatest fears of long-thinking Americans just now is that industrial recovery, or the plain indications thereof, may come too soon. It seems a paradoxical attitude when the President's entire attention is concentrated upon stimulating recovery, but it arises from the feeling that something more than material prosperity is necessary to insure the future. Force-growth to-day may merely result in collapse later on. Already it is evident that the dangers inherent in the situation are very real. The welcome which prostrate business promised the National Recovery Act has lost some warmth now that business is able to sit up. Flat on its economic back America was ready for reform. But prices are up a little. The stock market is lively enough. And reform seems not to matter so much now that it looks as if business may recover without it. From some quarters particularly sharp criticism has been directed at the Administration because of its pressure to obtain the submission of codes for industrial self-control. No doubt some of the delay in working out codes has been due to complexities of problems which are appreciable only to those with first-hand experience in industrial management. And some of the delay must be attributed to understandable hesitation on the part of trade leaders who feel the Administration's policies with respect to the recovery measure need further clarification. On the other hand some interests have practically declared that they are not willing to cooperate. Some neglected to prepare their codes because they were too busy piling up low-cost goods—goods they expect to sell at the higher prices which may result from others' sacrifices for the general welfare. Some appear even to be such as to distract public attention from the need of making a better social attitude effective through legislation. The Recovery Act may be imperfectly conceived as regards details. But the need is to keep the footing already obtained on the steep ascent from industrial anarchy. To this end, enforcement of the industrial control provision by the Government, should industry fail to play a patriotic part, would seem well justified. The upturn in business, welcome as it is, should not be allowed to obscure the continuing need of better basis for prosperity.

NOTES OF THE DAY

JAPAN'S FUTURE

The latest warning of the danger of a military dictatorship in Japan comes from an unexpected source. Mr. Takahashi is Minister of Finance in the Saito Cabinet with the unpleasant task before him of budgeting once again for a large deficit, and, while not intending to give up the struggle, he is evidently tiring of the fight. Mr. Takahashi, who abandoned a viscounty in order to return to the Lower Chamber in his country's interests, is now nearly seventy-eight years of age. Few Japanese statesmen are held in greater respect by their own countrymen, but there are signs that his personal influence is too late to stem the tide.

PATRIOTISM GONE WILD

The trial of the young Japanese officers arraigned for their connexion with the shooting of Mr. Inukai last year has only served to strengthen the appeal of the direct actionists. The consciousness of the crime has been added to the back-ground; motives have been adduced as a subject for pride. Evidence has had little to do with the crime; the accused have made use of the witness box to deliver political speeches. All the comments on the case refer to the sincerity of their "patriotic fervour" no matter how tragically misguided it may have been. The influence of this spirit upon a nation whose sentiment has already been inflamed by the Manchuria adventure and its aftermath can well be imagined. Altogether, the outlook is highly disturbing.

SWIMMING CONTROVERSY

The new Hongkong Swimming Association has quickly found itself involved in an unfortunate incident. The justice or otherwise of the suspension of two well-known lady swimmers is not very material; a bad impression has been created which it will not be easy to remove. After all, the Association should have been prepared for contretemps of this kind in its early days. It does not command the support of all the local swimming clubs and sources of friction are, therefore, almost inevitable. In these circumstances, particularly, or so it seems to us, the policy should be one of smoothing-out the little difficulties cropping up from time to time, of exercising gentle persuasion rather than of issuing ultimatums and acting arbitrarily upon failure to comply. The Association thrusts the onus upon the Y.M.C.A. Committee, but it cannot entirely escape responsibility. There are wheels within wheels.

WET TRIUMPH

Twenty-two States in America have now voted for the repeal of Prohibition and none have opposed abandonment of the Great Experiment. The necessary majority has not been secured but it soon will be. The Pussyfoots surrendered their last lingering hopes when they failed to hold the so-called bone-dry States, Alabama and Arkansas, generally regarded as strongholds of Prohibition sentiment. Yet Alabama went "wet" by two votes to one and Arkansas by three votes to two. Thirteen more States are voting in the next two months, making a total of thirty-five, only one less than the number required for a three-fourths majority.

MELONS AND MILEAGE

Watermelons are reported to be getting thin-skinned. Not that they are troubled with anything like an inferiority complex; this condition is rather a result of an effort on the part of every honest watermelon to give consumers a little more for their money.

As a matter of fact watermelons are said to be getting so thin-skinned that the railroads are forecasting recourse to oversized egg crates to assure safety in transportation. Watermelons that enter the northeastern states from such distant points as Georgia, Alabama and Texas should not be too sensitive; they have a long way to travel and need a pretty tough casing to guarantee against punctures.

Of course it is very laudable and enterprising for the watermelon to break away from tradition and make its mind a negligible consideration to the consumer. But twentieth century conditions, the rushing of perishable products from one part of the world to the other, demand modifications in the structural specifications of even watermelons. Their wearing qualities have become an important consideration. The popular brand of watermelon of the future—the best seller—may not be the one that can display the most luscious interior, but the one that can survive the journey.

MENACE TO FREEDOM

By E. L. ALLEN

The campaign against freedom seems to be increasing in momentum as it proceeds. Country after country has come to the perilous conclusion that crime lies not only in what a man does, but in what he thinks as well. Government of the people remains, there may even be a considerable measure of government for the people, but government by the people may soon become defunct. The game of party politics continues, but there is only one party to play at it, and makes the rules so that it will win every time.

In certain countries, a Parliamentary opposition is illegal, in others it is tolerated but reduced to powerlessness. Elections become a farce, and sweeping majorities are secured by the simple but cowardly expedient of making it impossible for anyone else to seek the suffrages of the public. In countries where the traditional respect for democratic forms remains, two parties combine to crush all possible rivals out of existence. Thus, in South Africa, the Coalition Government has 138 out of the 150 seats in the House!

We used to think that Russia was the chief offender under this system of one-party rule, but that is no longer the case. True, to be anti-Communist is a political offence of the first order. But within the framework of the system which has been created, criticism is not merely tolerated but encouraged, and most of what the outside world knows of the defects in the Soviet industrial venture had already been cried aloud from the house-tops by the Moscow press.

TRAINING DOCTILES.

In many countries, education has ceased to be concerned with the development of personality, and has become a vast scheme for training docile followers for the dominant party. Boy Scouts must shout the national slogans, and history must be re-written to lead up to the appearance of Sun Yat Sen or Mussolini or some other demi-god. Hundreds of young Lutheran ministers, many of whom fought in the War, are to-day in concentration camps because they would not publicly thank God for the National Socialist rule in the Church. What a pathetic moment that was when Hindenburg pleaded that at least in this realm, room might be felt for liberty of conscience, and was told that a revolution could spare nothing! One of the latest regulations of the education authorities in Russia is that philosophy is to form part of the curriculum of all higher schools. Excellent, one is tempted to say, it will teach the next generation to think and find the truth for itself. But not the whole aim is to make the next generation impervious to any truth except what is to be found in the pages of Karl Marx!

One is proud to be an Englishman in these days, for one thinks of England as among the last refuges of liberty. I believe it was a bad day for the world when we abandoned free trade; it would be sheer disaster should we ever break with our tradition of free thought and free speech. Minorities throughout the world look to us to preserve liberty till the day comes when they can enjoy it themselves again.

ENGLAND ALSO CHANGES.

Yet no one could say that public opinion at Home is as jealous for the liberty of the subject as it once was. That Liberalism, one of the master-creations of a much-abused century, is discredited at the polls would be a small matter, if it were not that it is discredited in no slight measure in men's minds. Mr. H. W. Nevins spoke of himself the other day as an anachronism, because he still believed in liberty as the birth-right of every man! Prof. Gilbert Murray tells us how he was once speaking to a working-class audience on the rights of human personality, and was told that they did not want 'any of that mid-Victorian sentimentalism'!

It is easy to say that democracy has failed. Democracy is entitled to reply that if it has failed to rescue the world from chaos the other thing broke down in 1914 before the much simpler task of keeping in existence an ordered, fairly-educated, and tolerably prosperous world. And it is entitled, too, to point to Spain, where dictatorship made the mess and democracy has cleaned it up! One of the ablest observers of the modern situation has said that the struggle to-day is between government by force and government by consent, and that this will be decided one way or the other within the next fifteen years.

A NEW RELIGION.

Prophecy is a dangerous business, but Arthur Feller's prophecy in his book on Russia is one that I hope will come true. "Sooner or later, there will certainly be a new revolution—a revolution which will free her from the mass-mind, a revolution that will free her from collectivisation, a truly human revolt. Europe can go another way than that which Russia has gone. It is the way to social righteousness, to human freedom and dignity, and that with the full attainment of the rights of personality and of the personal worth of the individual as its goal, even in face of the powers which threaten to-day to trample them underfoot. That would be the fulfilment of the task which has lain upon Europe for humanity through the centuries. It would be the crown of her service to mankind. But—she will have to will it!"

JAPAN AND THE LEAGUE

ACTIVITIES BEING WATCHED

Tokyo, Aug. 21.
In order to improve the Japanese situation in world diplomatic circles, Count Y. Uchida, the Foreign Minister, has decided to which the future action of the League of Nations, which may affect Japan, it was learned. When the trip of Dr. L. Rajchman, Director of the Health Organisation of the League of Nations, as liaison agent to China was decided upon some time ago, Japan urged M. Joseph Avenol, Secretary-General of the League, to limit Dr. Rajchman's assistance to China to technical measures.

Since Japan's announcement of withdrawal from the League last March, most of the principal Japanese officials of the League left their Geneva posts, except Mr. J. Ito. Difficulties are now being experienced by the Government here in collecting sufficient information and in communicating Japan's views to the League. As a counter-measure, therefore, Foreign Office authorities have decided to increase the number of diplomatic officials in European nations in order to watch the League.

Mr. J. Ito, Councillor, Mr. D. Kato and Mr. S. Sato, second class secretaries, will be stationed in France; Councillor M. Yokoyama and a third class secretary, Mr. T. Terazaki, are to be sent to Belgium; while Mr. S. Shibunawa and Mr. Y. Ando, third class secretaries will take posts in Switzerland. It is reported that Count Uchida intends to make the general shift of Japan's diplomatic representatives in Europe before formally leaving the League.

Relations with America
Meantime, the Foreign Minister is reported to have adopted a friendly policy toward the United States and is trying to approach the Roosevelt Administration. Japan is now keenly interested in the American attitude toward the Far East after America's industrial recovery plan and the war-debt questions are settled during October. The following are the main points of Japan's policy toward the United States, it is reported:—

(1) To explain to the American nation that the revision of the Washington and London Naval Treaties is absolutely necessary for Japan's national defence.
(2) Apart from the recognition question of Manchukuo, Japan desires America's friendship towards the new state and will promote commercial relations between the United States and Manchukuo, regardless of Manchukuo's independence; and
(3) Japan expects that public opinion in America will favour the conclusion of the American-Japanese arbitration treaty. In case America should propose such a treaty, Japan will try to materialise it.—United Press.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET FIRM

According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was firm yesterday. Business done 3,300,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market:

An extremely bullish tone pervaded the market due to inflation activity, especially the Federal Reserve Banks announced heavy purchases of Government securities which weakened the dollar. Another bullish factor was the London agreement for wheat price recovery. There was also frantic short covering which advanced the main list from 1 to more than 6 points with Homestake Goldmining shares jumping 24 1/2 points to a level of 298 1/2, a record high. Other general stocks made new highs for 1933.

Our New York Office cable (This morning) Stocks: The list gives every appearance of having embarked on a new phase of a bull market, and it is advisable to hold stocks. Wheat: Opened sharply higher on cables, sterling, reported agreement reached at the International Wheat Conference, and domestic developments. It was a very bullish market but sold off because of lack of buying power. Buy on all recessions. Cotton: Advance stimulated by reports of credit expansion operations by Federal Reserve Banks and continued strength in stocks and sterling. Aside from heavy selling for October operations were light. Silver: Followed other commodities and was strong and active.

Our New York Office cable (Last Night) Stocks: The revival of inflation talk is booming stocks. We may see some realizing to-day but expect higher prices next week. Wheat: Liverpool declines moderately. Our market sold off due to lack of buying interest and unsettled outlook. Responsible news is bullish, particularly for cash wheat. Cotton: Opened higher on action of sterling, stocks and continued inflation talk coincident with light hedge offerings.

Ex-President Machado of Cuba is evidently in hourly fear of assassination.

A police guard, armed with rifles, has been mounted both inside and outside his hotel.

It is believed he received a warning from his son. When revolution in Cuba swept Machado from office, he escaped from the island by aeroplane. Many of his supporters who remained in Havana were assassinated. It is said that Machado has U.S. $500,000 in the Bank of England and intends leaving for Europe shortly.—Reuter.

DRUG THAT KILLS WITHOUT TRACE

SWIFT MOVE BY HOME
OFFICE

INQUEST ALARM

It is stated that immediate steps are to be taken by the Home Office to stop the promiscuous sale of a drug called Dial, to which reference was made at a London inquest, when it was disclosed that an unknown quantity of the drug had caused the death of a woman who had taken it to make her sleep.

It was stated that no trace of the drug would be found in a body after 24 hours.

NO RESTRICTIONS.

At present there are no restrictions on the sale of the drug, which can be obtained from chemists on the purchaser signing a formal entry in the poison register.

An expert told a reporter that Dial was one of the barbituric acid groups of which veronal was a prominent member.

"If taken in proper doses it is safe," he said. "It is used quite a lot by people who suffer from sleeplessness."

"Fatal overdoses, however, are not uncommon, and it is as a result of the abuse that is being made of the drug that steps are being taken to restrict the sale."

"In the near future the drug will only be obtainable on the production of a medical prescription authorising its purchase. Provision is being made for the strict control of such drugs in the Pharmacy and Poisons Bill, which received royal assent a few weeks ago."

A suggestion that the drug might be used for criminal purposes was made at the inquest by a jurymen who stated:

If anyone of criminal intent gave a person a lethal dose of Dial and kept the body back for 24 hours, no trace of the Dial would be found, and the criminal would get away with it.

SAFE IF USED CAUTIOUSLY.

Dr. A. Douglas Cowburn, the coroner, said:

"This opens up alarming possibilities. I know the Home Office experts keep a careful watch on matters of this kind. The difficulty is that the medical profession must have a drug to relieve sleeplessness."

"Without making any general statement on drugs," he added, "I may say that if drugs of this group are used properly they are perfectly safe, but, like everything else, if used improperly, they lead to disaster."

"Opium is a case in point. If taken in small doses it is of such enormous value that it was called by the Easterns the Gift of God to Man, but we know that if persons become addicted to opium they become ruined mentally, morally, and physically. It is all a question of degree."

Mr. John L. Wines, an analyst at St. Thomas's Hospital, said that as the drug broke down so rapidly in the body, he could not recover anything like the amount taken.

BUILT IN CANADA

I'VE had an extraordinary experience the past few weeks. I've been trying out a number of low-priced automobiles. And I wouldn't be surprised if they have me pegged as a pest in a lot of salesrooms.

They said I was looking for too much for my money... that I'd never get the kind of car I specified. But they were wrong. I got a Rockne... the low-priced car that's built by Studebaker, you know.

This Rockne is marvelously built for one thing. Everything about its mechanism is solid and strong like an expensive car. That's the thing that impresses you the first minute you drive it. And Studebaker has made sure that Rockne is completely equipped with all the modern advancements—besides upholstering it as richly as though it sold for much more.

Six-cylinder, 70 h.p. engine floated in live rubber... free wheeling, synchronized shift, silent second... automatic switch-key starting... double-drop, rigid "X" frame... one piece all steel bodies of full aerodynamic design... contoured upholstery with special coil springs... smaller wheels, lower overall height... and numerous other fine car features.

Mr. Novarro A Success On the Stage

WOMAN'S BROOCH GIFT

London, July 20.

Mr. Ramon Novarro, who made his first stage bow before a London audience at the Palladium last night, can go down into theatrical history as the first Hollywood screen star who has completely succeeded in getting his film personality across the footlight of an English music-hall.

His act consists merely of light songs, in English and Spanish, in evening-dress and teneador's costume—and so brief was each number that his appearances had to be eked out with dances by the Palladium chorus and an acrobatic dancing couple.

MOBBED AT DOOR.

But the very fact that this dark, handsome screen lover did not attempt too much was the secret of his success. His voice is small, but he used it so artistically that his every word could be heard at the back of the theatre. He combined the saucy smile beloved of filmgoers with a quiet and modest bearing; and—the best thing of all—this particular visitor from Hollywood has a real sense of humour about himself.

It took the conscientious determination of six stalwart policemen to shepherd Mr. Novarro into the stage-door of the first house, through an army of excited admirers bent on mobbing him; there were similar scenes when he attempted to leave.

The most enterprising member of the first-house audience was a woman in the front row who, when Mr. Novarro ventured near enough on the "joy-plank," jumped up and thrust a bundle of tissue-paper into his hands. When he examined it in his dressing-room Mr. Novarro discovered inside a case containing an expensive topaz brooch, with a card inscribed: "For your mother or your future wife; for all the pleasure you have given us."

The reception from the entire audience was prodigious—and need one add that Mr. Novarro was obliged to give them "The Pagan Love Song" before he was allowed to depart?

YORKS ATTACK HARSHLY TREATED

SURREY SCORE 560 FOR 6

KEEN DUEL BETWEEN ESSEX AND LANCASHIRE

BOWLERS HOLD THE BALANCE

London, Aug. 25.

Perhaps it was just as well for them that Yorkshire had the county cricket championship tucked away safely a week ago.

Since then they have not only been beaten outright by Kent, but to-day Surrey finished well on top in a drawn game and won points on first innings.

Once again the Yorkshire attack was harshly treated, Surrey rattling up the huge total of 560 for 6 wickets declared.

Squires and Barling were the chief run-getters. The former scored a brilliant 178 and his colleague helped things along with 112.

Yorkshire did not bat very impressively in their first innings, making the mediocre reply of 233, but following on they succeeded in saving the game, adding 219 for 5 wickets. When stumps were drawn they were still 108 runs in arrears.

ONE RUN.

Worcester beat Hampshire on first innings in a rather remarkable game. Worcester batted first and just reached the century mark. Hampshire, faced with what appeared a fairly easy task, failed completely before the bowling of Brook (6 for 32) and were dismissed for 99.

After this runs lost their high premium. G. F. Walters, the Test batsman and Nichol hit gaily to all parts of the ground when Worcester paid return visit to the ground. Walters scored 190 not out, and Nichol 116 and the Pottermen closed the innings at 425 for 4 wickets.

Hampshire experienced no difficulty in batting on a wearing wicket, and with Philip Mead scoring another century, easily saved the game. When stumps were drawn Hampshire's score was 295 for 4.

EXCITING MATCH.

Lancashire and Essex had an exciting match.

Both scored 205 in their first innings and then, thanks to Nichols (5 for 57) Lancashire were sent back a second time for 198.

But the task of scoring 199 to win proved just too much for Essex. In a breathless finish they were sent back for 181 and Lancashire won by 17 runs.

Mitchell, with 11 wickets for 115 did more than anybody else to make possible Derby's victory over Middlesex, whilst Astill made a valiant effort for Leicester against Sussex when he took 9 for 100.

Kowloon Dock Rinks For The "Dorrance" Cup.

In the annual "Dorrance" Cup match between the two local docks to be played at Kowloon this afternoon, the Kowloon Dock R.C. will be represented by the following: J. Kempton, C. Atkinson, J. V. Ramsey and W. G. Brown (skip); G. N. Mitchell, W. H. C. Robinson, W. Hedley and W. Grogg (skip); R. Morrison, R. J. Goodman, J. Lindsay and F. Cullen (skip); V. East, M. Ferguson, S. Gray and R. It is not certain whether R. Lapsley will be fit to play but he has been selected in the event of his being able to turn out.

INTERPORT BOWLS

TO BE PLAYED SEPTEMBER 23, 27 AND 30

The dates for the three Interport bowls against Shanghai were decided yesterday evening when the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association met to make arrangements for the forthcoming meeting of the two ports.

The first match will be played on Saturday, September 23 (Craik-gower C.C. green), the second on Wednesday, September 27 (Kowloon C.C. green) and the third (if necessary) on Saturday, September 30 (Police R.C. green).

On the proposal of the chairman, Mr. J. Russell, it was unanimously decided to accommodate the Shanghai players at the Peninsula Hotel.

As regards the selection of the team to meet Shanghai, Mr. B. Wylie pointed out that in the old days the home team generally won, but since the new arrangement of selecting a different rink from the home team for each match, the reverse had been the case. This was probably due to the fact that the visiting team, playing with only six players, had the advantage.

The Chairman, however, suggested three different rinks should be selected to meet Shanghai, adding that he thought the Selection Committee should not be tied down to three different rinks, but should be given the power to make changes if they thought fit.

This suggestion was accepted by the Selection Committee.

Mr. A. L. Shields pointed out that by making a rule like that, the Association would be raising difficulties for the Selection Committee. He thought the Selection Committee should not be tied down to three different rinks, but should be given the power to make changes if they thought fit.

This suggestion was accepted by the Selection Committee.

RESULTS AT A GLANCE.

How the Davis Cup Was Won

AUSTIN LOSES TO AN INSPIRED COCHET

"TIGER" MERLIN

The following is a descriptive report of the last two matches in the Davis Cup final when Cochet beat Austin and Perry overcame Merlin, the latter victory giving Britain the Cup.

The matches and scenes are described by Frank Paxon the News-Chronicle writer.

Paris, July 30.
At 7.35 this evening the strains of the "National Anthem" crashed out and 15,000 people in the Stade Roland Garros stood to attention as the Davis Cup was presented to Britain's non-playing captain, Mr. Roper Barrett.

It was a moving scene and I should like to say at once how much I admire the sportsmanship of the French crowd. They were naturally disappointed at losing the cup, but they gave our players every credit and in the moment of defeat showed splendid sportsmanship.

Everything depended on the fifth and final match, when F. J. Perry had to face Andre Merlin. Merlin, aged 19, had to fight for France, and he fought grandly, as did Fred Perry for England.

It was a tremendous test for Merlin. It was his first Davis Cup experience and he was called (Continued on Page 5.)

VINES STILL AN AMATEUR

Committee Expresses Satisfaction

New York, Aug. 25.
The United States Lawn Tennis Association Amateur Rules Committee has announced that the investigation of Ellsworth Vines' amateur status has revealed that amateur rules have not been violated by the player.

The report of the Committee states that Vines has made no written or oral agreement to turn professional, although there had been discussions regarding that possibility between him and other parties. In the opinion of the Committee, however, such discussions did not constitute a violation of the rules.

The report adds that the discussion surrounding questioning of Vines' status have not added to the lustre of the sport.—Reuter.

ITALY SHOULD QUALIFY

WIN FIRST TWO SINGLES

DAVIES CUP TIE

Hague, Aug. 25.
The last stages of the qualifying competition for the 1934 Davis Cup tournament have now been reached and to-day Holland and Italy started their match for right to gain a place among the last four and thus to enter the competition proper.

The first day's play went completely in favour of Italy, who won both the opening singles. Baron de Stefani had a great five set match with Timmer, Holland's leading player. The Italian eventually won after being in arrears two sets to one.

Stefani captured the first set at the 20th game, but had to concede the second and third following some exhilarating exchanges in which both players showed up well.

Stefani's stability and stamina came to his aid and after 'loveling up' in the fourth set, he clinched the issue in a fairly comfortable manner.

Rado, proved far too good for Karsten beating the Dutchman in straight sets.

Scores: Do Stefani (Italy) beat H. Timmer (Holland) 11-9, 5-7, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2.
Rado (Italy) beat Karsten (Holland) 6-1, 6-3, 6-1.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY
THE THEATRESThe last scene to be filmed by Monty Banks, for "My Wife's Family" literally went with a bang—so loud a reverberation, in fact, that the inhabitants of Elstree suffered serious qualms.However, there was no cause for alarm for the explosion was intentional. The rustic summer house with thatched roof and roses round the door that adorned the beautiful garden set of "My Wife's Family" was doomed from the start.
Within the summer-house was a grand piano and in the story the harassed husband is obliged to get rid of it at short notice by blowing it sky high.An exact replica of the summerhouse was built outside the Studio and mined with gunpowder which was connected by wire to a detonator controlled by Banks. At a given signal the explosion took place.
The roof was blown off, the wall collapsed and the sound recorder reported a perfect result.Only one actor took part in the scene, Charles Eaton, who made an entrance immediately on its completion. He spent several moments in the choking atmosphere and was found to be suffering from the fumes.

"Baroud"

Rox Ingram, whose Moroccan opus, "Baroud", showing to-day at the King's Theatre, has been the recipient of a very startling offer. Clarence
Brown, the ace director of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, who recently returned to California after three months European vacation, was apparently vastly impressed, not only by "Baroud" as a production, but by Ingram's appeal on the screen as an actor. So much so, that he offered to place the hero of "Baroud" to Hollywood as a leading man.To Jimmy Starr, Film Columnist of the Los Angeles Evening Herald Express, Brown stated: "Ingram is better-looking than any of our foremost male stars of to-day. Better still, he has real ability, a splendid knowledge of pictures, and I am positive that he would be a sensation, should he ever devote his time to appearing in American films".
Brown adds that Ingram had lately taken up boxing and was in excellent physical condition.At the time of the well-known producer's visit, Ingram was tempted with the unusual offer. He refused, however, to return with Brown to Hollywood, but asked that he be permitted to consider what, without a doubt, is a particularly tempting offer.

"To-night Is Ours"

Frederic March, co-stars with Claudette Colbert, dark-eyed, French-born screen beauty, in "To-night Is Ours", screen adaptation of a play by Noel Coward, which commences to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre.
Like "Private Lives", best known to the movie public of all Coward's works, "To-night Is Ours" is a witty, romantic story of clever, intelligent people. It centres around a girl ofposition who waives her responsibilities and sets out to have an amusing time in Paris, and a wealthy young Parisian who insists on being the source of the amusement. In giddy, coquette fashion, they chase about the French capital, but their moments alone are moments of deep, flaming passion. A strange trick of the fates almost upsets their lives, but a dramatic climax ultimately sets everything to rights.March is cast as the Parisian, with Miss Colbert as the girl in the case.
Alison Skipworth, veteran trouper who has achieved sensational success in character roles in "Madame Racketeer", "Night After Night", "If I Had a Million", and other pictures, heads the supporting cast, which also includes Arthur Byron and Paul Cavanagh. Stuart Walker, famed "star maker", directed.

"Cynara"

Ronald Colman in "Cynara", is to be presented by Samuel Goldwyn at the King's Theatre on Wednesday.
Playing opposite Mr. Colman are Kay
Francis, as sleek and finely groomed as ever, and Phyllis Barry, a new-comer, in the dual feminine roles, and Henry Stephenson in the part he created in the New York stage production.In selecting "Cynara" as a successor to Mr. Colman's "Arrow-smith" of last season, Goldwyn did so largely out of sense of contrast, not only for Colman, but for King Vidor as well.For this grim story of "fashions in fidelity" is different from anything Colman has done in a long time, and it is Vidor's first at urbanity and sophistication.
It is a quiet, human story that might have come out of yesterday's headlines. Its story is an every-day story. No melodramatics, no villains, no theatrics. It is this humanly romantic drama upon which Vidor and his players, Mr. Colman, Miss Francis and Miss Barry, and Mr.
Stephenson worked against a background of luxury and well-being and nice living.Francis Marion and Lynn Starling adapted the play by H. M. Harwood and Robert Gore-Brown. The play was based on the novel "An Imperfect Lover", by Mr. Gore-Brown.

If the Swiss Milkman from the Emmenthal brought you the milk straight to your house, it surely could not be purer and more wholesome than "BEAR BRAND" milk.

The Bernese Alps Milk Company enjoys many advantages for which it may well be called the best established right in the best milk centre, the Emmenthal in beautiful Switzerland, it commands the milk of an excellent breed of cows. So no wonder that "BEAR BRAND" milk is so much sweeter, creamier, and more delicious than any other milk.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney.

To-day I am going to give you one of the hands that helped Louis H. Watson and his partner, Samuel Fry, win the All-American contract pair championship recently held at Hanover, N. H. These boys were also on the team which won the All-American contract team-of-four championship.

Winning two championships at a tournament is indeed quite a feat and one would expect a complicated hand from one of these champions. However, Mr. Watson stated that it is not such a hand that wins for you, but rather being on the job with the usual hands. And so he gave me the following hand. It was badly bid, and by carefully watching the play Mr. Watson was able to defeat the contract.

The Bidding

The bidding as it actually occurred was as follows: South bid one spade, West bid two hearts, North passed and Mr. Watson in

♠ 8-5	♥ 2	♦ A-10-8-7-2	♣ K-10-9-5-4
♠ 7-4	♥ A-10-9-7-6-3	♦ 6-4	♣ 8-6-3
NORTH
♠ 9-3-2	♥ J-8-5	♦ K-J-9-3	♣ A-Q-J
EAST
♠ A-K-Q-J-10-6	♥ K-Q-4	♦ Q-5	♣ 7-2
SOUTH

the East bid three hearts. South bid three spades, West passed and North went to four spades. Mr. Watson doubled and South quickly redoubled.

The Play

The declarer got a favourable opening from West—the eight of clubs. Mr. Watson won the trick with the jack and returned a small spade hoping to stop some heart ruffs.

Declarer won the trick with the ace and then saw that the only way he could make his contract was to establish the club suit. Therefore he returned the seven of clubs which Mr. Watson won with the queen. Mr. Watson decided to return another spade.

However—he had to be careful which spade was led, because if he had played the three, the declarer would allow it to ride to dummy's eight. He would lead another club, trump in his own hand, pick up the outstanding trump and go over to the dummy with the ace of diamonds, discarding his losing heart on the two good clubs. In this manner he would make his contract.

By returning the nine of spades Mr. Watson shut out this possibility. The declarer was forced to win the trick and must now lose two hearts and a diamond—and so we find the while the return of a small spade would allow the declarer to make his contract doubled and redoubled, the return of the nine of spades defeated this contract two tricks.

COTTON PARLEY. P & O BRITISH-INDIA APCAR AND EASTERN & AUSTRALIAN LINES.

BRITISH DELEGATE HOPEFUL

London, Aug. 25.

The cotton and artificial silk mission to India, which will engage in a tripartite discussion with representatives of the textile industries of India and Japan, left London this morning, embarking on the steamer Maloja at Tilbury.

Sir William Clare Lees, a prominent figure in the cotton industry and head of the delegation, did not travel with the other members, but will join them in Marseilles.

Interviewed by Reuter, Sir William said that their object would be to bring back for the consideration of the industry at home and of the British Government, plans and proposals which would hold out promise for a more satisfactory volume of export trade for Lancashire in India, and other markets where the home manufacturers shared the interest with India mills.

Some permanent solution of the problem of Japanese competition in India was obviously a primary necessity, he said, for the Indian mill owners as well as those of Lancashire.

If on this basis they could build up a structure for co-operation and mutual understanding in trade relations with India, their visit would not have been in vain, he concluded.—Reuter.

BANK OF JAPAN'S HOLDINGS FALL

YEN 20,000,000 PROFIT THIS YEAR

Tokyo, Aug. 26. The net profit of the Bank of Japan during the last six months of this year was Yen 20,537,849.00, according to an official report made at the general meeting of stockholders yesterday. After reporting the account for the first half of 1933, Mr. K. Hijioka, President, asked the stockholders to vote for a new member of the Board of Directors to succeed Mr. Choji Nagaike. Mr. Y. Minomura was chosen.

Other high officials were also appointed at the meeting including Viscount M. Aoki and Mr. Sadao Aoki Kawakami, who were made auditors.

In the report, it was stated that all foreign branches of the Bank of Japan held cash to the amount of Yen 38,702,000 on June 30, 1933 as compared with Yen 130,160,000 on December 31 last year and Yen 160,704,000 on June 30 last year. Financial leaders take a serious view of this decrease.—United Press.

OREGON FIRE.

STATE'S FINEST TIMBER DESTROYED

Portland, Ore., Aug. 25. Two thousand men are battling with the worst fire in Oregon's history.

They have at least closed in on the blaze, which for a fortnight basked their most strenuous efforts and brought devastation to 350 square miles.

Some of the State's finest timber was destroyed.—Reuter.

THE WHEAT PACT SIGNED

affecting the area of wheat grown and the degree of production adopted are primarily dependent upon domestic conditions within each country and that any change in those measures must often require the sanction of the legislature.

The intention of this agreement is nevertheless that importing countries will not take advantage of a reduction of exports on the part of exporting countries by developing their domestic policies in such a way as to prejudice the efforts which the exporting countries are making in the common interest to restore the price of wheat to a remunerative level.

TEN CENTS A SE.

In regard to figure of 63.08 gold cents per bushel inserted in the final agreement, the index figure for the week ending August 5th was on this calculation 56 gold cents and it is now between 53 and 54.

It will be seen, therefore, that the price must rise 10 gold cents approximately per bushel and be maintained at that price for a period of four months before it will be necessary for the importing countries to adjust their tariff.

Wheat prices advanced on the Liverpool futures markets when news of the agreement became known. Prices were 3/4d to 7/8d down at the opening but rose to 1/2d to 3/4d higher than yesterday's close.

The conference started on Monday and is, therefore, one of the shortest International Conferences on record. Preparatory talks were conducted in recent months at Geneva and during the World Economic Conference in London.—British Wireless.

CHICAGO WORLD FAIR

TRAGIC END TO PARTY'S VISIT

Chicago, Aug. 19.

Up to the present nearly 10,000,000 persons have visited the World Fair here. The 10-millionth visitor is expected to be registered some time to-day or at the latest to-morrow.

A visit to the World Fair here had a tragic end for a party of residents of Wakarusa, Indiana, when they were returning home in a truck converted into a 'bus for the occasion.

Near South Bend, Indiana, a heavy truck travelling in the opposite direction ripped off the side of the improvised 'bus, with the result that many of its occupants were thrown to the roadway, some dying instantaneously.

The 'bus, deflected from its course, ran into a ditch, while the truck which had caused the accident sped away from the scene, leaving behind six persons killed and 10 seriously injured.

Police are trying to find the "hit-and-run" driver of the truck.—Reuter.

"GO SLOW" TACTICS IN I.R.A.T. FACTORY

Shanghai, Aug. 25. A strike involving 6,000 employees of the British-American Tobacco Company eventuated to-day, when factory workers adopted a "go slow" policy, bringing the plant practically to a standstill.

The company is not locking out its employees at present.

In the meantime, attempts to settle the dispute are proceeding.—Our Own Correspondent.

The strike, which has been threatening for some weeks, is the result of the Company's refusal to re-instate dismissed employees.
